

AHU ÖZYURT

Ms. Ahu Özyurt began her journalistic career as an intern with NBC's Washington Bureau in 1992. She worked as reporter for Show TV and ATV networks. She then started working as a reporter/ editor / announcer at NTV (the first Turkish news network) and CNBC-E. Ms. Özyurt edited and announced daily news show "Gece Görüşü" (Night Vision) and a monthly program "Reporter" news show on CNN-Turk news network. Between 2007-2009 she worked as the Washington Correspondent of CNN-Turk and Milliyet daily. Ms. Özyurt edited and anchored news at Bloomberg HT, Bloomberg TV's Turkish franchise in 2010. She is currently working as an editor and commentator with CNN-Turk, writing articles on CNN-Turk's website, as well as blogging at Gazeteport.com, one of Turkish independent news web sites.

She received an M.S. degree from Columbia University's School of Journalism after completing her studies for a B.A. degree on administrative sciences at Boğaziçi University in Istanbul.

Ms. Özyurt is a recipient of CNN World Report award for her reporting on Kazakhstan Petroleum in 1994 and Turkish Journalists' Association award "Best Finance Program" in 2001.

She speaks very good English and Italian and conversational French.

.